Thanks you Tushar ☺ Thanks for the opportunity that you and Shampa madam had created in silica for me 5 years before. And thanks for the guidance and especially the analytical skill that I learnt from you.

Thanks,
Ram

Congratulations

Join us in congratulating Ram Kumar who has done fantastic work with his extraordinary technical skills for his client, Silica. Ram has been associated with Silica for the last 5 years and is based out of South Africa.

He played a huge roll in minimizing the regression time from +8 hours to 4 hours for the Correspondence team at Silica with the help of automation. His pro-activeness also helped in decreasing the batch processing time to less than 10 hours. He used the multithreading approach which worked wonders with the project.

This initiative helped the client save a considerable amount of time and fetched appreciation from the CIO and Directors of Silica and is aptly described in the words of the client manager, "Ram is a silent worker who continues to impress and surprise us with his extraordinary technical skills and innovative ideas".

A senior business analyst of Silica expressed his satisfaction in the following words, "Ram automated 90% of the tasks required for regression! This was not part of any optimization request. He created this process because he saw the need to help out".

Ram has been with Zensar since 2007

Well done Ram!
